Call for CSEB 2023 papers: Canadian Journal of Public Health, and Healthcare Policy

The Canadian Society for Epidemiology and Biostatistics (CSEB) has partnered with two journals, the Canadian Journal of Public Health (CJPH) and Healthcare Policy, and is pleased to invite presenters from the CSEB Biennial Conference, Halifax, Nova Scotia, June 26-28, 2023 to submit a manuscript for consideration in an upcoming issue of one of these journals.

Manuscripts based on presentations in the plenary, concurrent oral, or poster sessions are eligible for submission and will undergo expedited peer review for consideration of publication. CJPH will consider submissions on epidemiological and biostatistical research, and Healthcare Policy will consider submissions that discuss health policy and health system implications of new or emerging research.

Manuscripts can be any of the accepted types, must be prepared following the guidelines of the journal to which you aim to submit, and submitted online. Please include in the cover letter that your paper is to be considered for the special CSEB section.

CJPH – Accepts manuscripts of the following types: Research paper (Quantitative, Qualitative, Mixed, Population Health Intervention, Systematic Reviews), Innovations in Policy and Practice, Commentary, and Letter to the Editor. Please consult the instructions for authors for more information (<https://www.springer.com/journal/41997/submission-guidelines>).

Healthcare Policy – Accepts manuscripts of the following types: Research Paper, Discussion and Debate (editorials), and Data Matters. Please consult the guidelines for authors for more information (<https://www.longwoods.com/pages/hpl-for-authors>).

The Editor-in-Chief of the CJPH acknowledges the quality of papers by choosing two non-open access articles in each issue that are outstanding with respect to scientific quality and public health relevance. These Editor's Choice articles are made available free access for two months. CJPH Editors will select one Editor's Choice article from this special section of CSEB papers. Papers published in Healthcare Policy will be available, open-access, 12 months after their initial date of publication or subject to a fee for immediate open access availability.

Manuscripts must be submitted by August 15, 2023.
